Hi Mark,

We had a productive meeting today on the EPA Admin trip. It sounds like a Saturday, June 10, food event in Bologna is the best. Then the Administrator could travel to Rome after the ministerial for follow-on events. Keep in mind everything is slow in Italy and people like to talk. Two events in one day is an accomplishment!

Easy to accomplish:

Roundtable with energy and environment leaders (suggest a coffee, since EPA doesn't have rep funds - Charge residence

Environmental innovations - perhaps an Italian company (this is not a good place for U.S. companies to locate)

Vatican Day

Community clean-up event with Boeing, a sponsor of Retake Roma (Boeing CSR program for teaching children about the environment)

Medium lift:

Food loss/waste in Bologna

Green Sports (perhaps an MOU signing to bring the sports coordinator into the fold?)

Not feasible:

A site visit to a U.S. industry near Rome or Bologna (U.S. companies don't manufacture here....there is Fiat/Chrysler plant in Italy, but not within reach)

The last email from Marguccio

A bilateral at the food waste event on Saturday June 10 in Bologna.
If EPA agrees I need to work with Prof Segrè asap!

Sent from my BlackBerry 10 smartphone.

>> Dear Stefano
>> Per our phone conversation, I am writing you for deciding the travel schedule of EPA Administrator Pruitt coming to Italy. As you can imagine, apart from the G7 itself, a meeting/event with the Minister is one of the most important priorities.
>> Initially, he was planning to come to Bologna and then to Rome, but since Minister Galletti is going to China, we will likely need to change his plan and consider to advise his team to come to Rome first.
Would the Minister be available for a bilateral meeting in Rome a few days before the G7 (June 7-9?).
>> Administrator Pruitt, as Minister Galletti, is very keen of Food Waste Reduction. What about organizing an event on Food Waste Reduction in Bologna, given that the Italian food-waste guru Andrea Segrè is there (we hope) and there is a brand-new Agri-Food Center (CAAB) and FICO there? We could do this event immediately before (Saturday morning?) or after (Tuesday morning) the G7.
>> Please advise which solution would be preferable for Minister Galletti's schedule as soon as possible!

>> grazie mille
